

Section (when fully closed)
(scale 1:10)

Section (when fully opened)
(scale 1:10)

Plan Through: B-B
(scale 1:10)

Plan Through: A-A
(scale 1:10)

| STACKDOOR® RC3 MINIMUM AND MAXIMUM DIMENSIONS |                         |                                   |                                   |                                    |                                    |
|-----------------------------------------------|-------------------------|-----------------------------------|-----------------------------------|------------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| Security Rating                               | Security rating profile | Min. structural opening width (m) | Max. structural opening width (m) | Min. structural opening height (m) | Max. structural opening height (m) |
| RC3                                           | RC3                     | 0.76                              | 6.0                               | 1.0                                | 6.0                                |

NOTE: The installation shall be direct to the substrate and not via intermediate substrates, such as plasterboard

| Installation Configurations |                                        |           |           |          |                                                         |
|-----------------------------|----------------------------------------|-----------|-----------|----------|---------------------------------------------------------|
| Configuration               | Substrate                              |           |           |          |                                                         |
| RC3                         | Structural Timber (minimum 123mm wide) | Brickwork | Blockwork | Concrete | Structural Steel (Minimum 3mm thickness and 123mm wide) |
|                             | ✓                                      | ✓         | ✓         | ✓        | ✓                                                       |

NOTES: 1. This drawing is copyright of Stackdoor and must not be reproduced whole or in part without prior written consent.